Special consideration

Special consideration consists of the exercise of academic discretion to provide equitable treatment to students whose performance in an exam or assessment is significantly affected by extenuating or special circumstances beyond their control.

Special consideration is not automatically granted and may not result in a study or mark adjustment.

When can a student apply for special consideration?

An application should be submitted by students only where their performance in an assessment item or items, including examinations, has been affected by extenuating or special circumstances beyond the students' control.

Extenuating or special circumstances can include:

- serious illness or psychological condition – such as hospital admission, infectious disease (e.g. flu or similar virus), serious injury or illness, severe anxiety or depression.
- loss or bereavement – such as death of a close family member, family/relationship breakdown
- hardship/trauma – such as victim of crime, sudden loss of income or employment, severe disruption to domestic arrangements
- exceptional employment demands – such as active service (e.g. ADF Reserves, bushfire and SES services)

The circumstances below are not eligible for special consideration:

- Minor ailments or illness where you are still capable of completing the assessment task
- Balancing workload or work commitments
- Public transport delays
- Personal events i.e. weddings, birthdays, travel plans
- Events which occurred at an unreasonable length of time in the past

When is the deadline to submit a special consideration application?

The deadline for the special consideration application varies depending on the type of assessment or exam.

Centrally-conducted exam

These are also known as end-of-session exams. The Student Administration Unit – Exams Branch schedule and conduct these type of exams.

Cannot attend	Apply for the advice for Scheduling Difficulties form before the deadline

Faculty-based exam / in-class quiz or test

These are conducted by the faculties during or after the teaching period. These include:

- Online quiz / test
- In-class quiz /test
- Faculty-based exam
- Take-home exams

* Students from the Faculty of Law need to apply for Exam after Examination period instead of a special consideration.

Assessment

All assessments should be submitted by the due date specified in the subject outline to avoid academic penalty or failure. Assessment items include but are not limited to:

- Essays
- Assignments
- Projects
- Creation of digital products
- Reports

Students may apply for Short Extensions (less than 72 hours) for some assessments – typically those submitted in Canvas with a 11:59pm deadline on their respective due dates. Where Short Extensions are permitted, they must be requested in Canvas by 11:59pm on the due date using the short extension tool. All requests are processed and approved automatically, and require no supporting documentation.

More information on short extensions can be found here.

Long Extension (more than 72 hours) requests are made via Special Consideration through the Student Portal. Long Extension requests must be made in sufficient time before the assessment due date so the subject coordinator can assess and consider the outcome (which will allow you time to complete the assessment by the deadline if your application is refused or request a Short Extension if applicable for your assessment type).

UTS Online students should refer to Canvas course page, subject outlines and/or UTS handbook for advice on requests for extensions.

Clinical Placement

This assessment type applies to students who have mandatory attendance requirements for clinical placements.

What supporting documents are required?

All special consideration applications must include current supporting documents as evidence to support their application. Students are advised to keep the original copy as they may be required to supply these documents at any time during their studies at UTS.

The supporting documents must clearly indicate:

- Details of the circumstances
- Impact on the student's ability to complete assessment / exam
- Duration of the circumstances (include start and end date)
- A physical signature and contact number of an appropriate representative
- The date the supporting document was issued

Professional Authority form

In the first instance, students should submit a Professional Authority form which should be completed by a medical practitioner, psychologist, counsellor, or other registered health practitioners.

The Professional Authority form must include the health practitioner's:

- Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA) Practitioner Registration number
- Medicare Provider number

If either the AHPRA Practitioner Registration number or Medicare Provider number are missing, then the PA form cannot be accepted and the application will be refused.

In order to be able to authenticate the PA form and identify fraudulent documents, UTS must be able to confirm the AHPRA Practitioner Registration number of the health practitioner on the AHPRA register.

Where is the Professional Authority form available?

- It is available on the special consideration webpage
- It will be available to download when a student saves a special consideration application
- It will be sent as an attachment to the student's UTS webmail when a special consideration application is saved

Q & A's

What can I do if exceptional circumstances are preventing me from submitting a special consideration application by the deadline?

Applications submitted after the deadline will not be accepted. You may request a late submission in exceptional circumstances only. Submit online enquiry via AskUTS. Reasons for late submission must be supported by documentary evidence.

Why does the PA form require both the AHPRA Practitioner Registration number and Medicare Provider number?

In order to be able to authenticate the Professional Authority form and identify fraudulent documents, UTS must be able to confirm the Practitioner Registration Number of your health practitioner on the AHPRA register.

Are all students' personal information kept confidential?

Special consideration applications often contain sensitive personal and/or medical information. Student confidentiality is important to UTS.

Please look at Your privacy at UTS as it explains how UTS will manage student privacy and protect student personal information.

What should a student do if they are unable to upload their supporting documents?

Students who experience difficulties in scanning and attaching their supporting documents should take the documents to a Student Centre for assistance. This must be done before the deadline.

What if a student has not received an outcome?

The outcome of an application will be sent via email to the student's UTS Webmail. Students can monitor the status of their application by logging into My Student Portal.

If it has been several weeks and the status of the application is still showing as Referred to Faculty students should contact the subject coordinator.

What if a student's supporting documents are from overseas?

UTS accept documents from overseas if they are certified by one of the following:

- an Australian overseas diplomatic mission
- a UTS authorised representative or agent
- a public notary office
- the administration of the institution which issued the relevant document
- an Australian university

Please note that all certifications must be in English.

When supporting documentation is in a language other than English it must be accompanied by an English translation by a NAATI-accredited translator (opens an external site).
