We're committed to research of international excellence and of real benefit to society.

Our campus is in the heart of Sydney's creative precinct and close to the city centre.

What we do

UTS offers over 300 undergraduate and postgraduate courses across traditional and emerging disciplines.

We believe in a lifetime of learning and offer newer forms of learning including short courses, enterprise learning and microcredentials.

Our students have access to Sydney's thriving startup community, and gain real-world experience through our connections with industry. We encourage our students to take internships and entrepreneurial experiences.

Students also have the opportunity to study overseas. UTS has exchange agreements in nearly 40 countries.

Our research has the potential to make a significant economic, environmental, cultural and social impact. Our researchers support the application of new technologies and provide solutions to important national and global challenges.

As a public purpose institution, UTS is committed to supporting positive social change within and beyond our campus. This commitment is reflected by a set of institution-wide social justice initiatives that have only expanded in scope and impact since UTS was established.

Our history

The University of Technology Sydney was founded in its current form in 1988, although its antecedent organisations trace back further. The new university came about through the merging of the New South Wales Institute of Technology with the School of Design of the former Sydney College of the Arts, the Kuring-gai College of Advanced Education and the Institute of Technical and Adult Teacher Education of the Sydney College of Advanced Education.

Principal functions

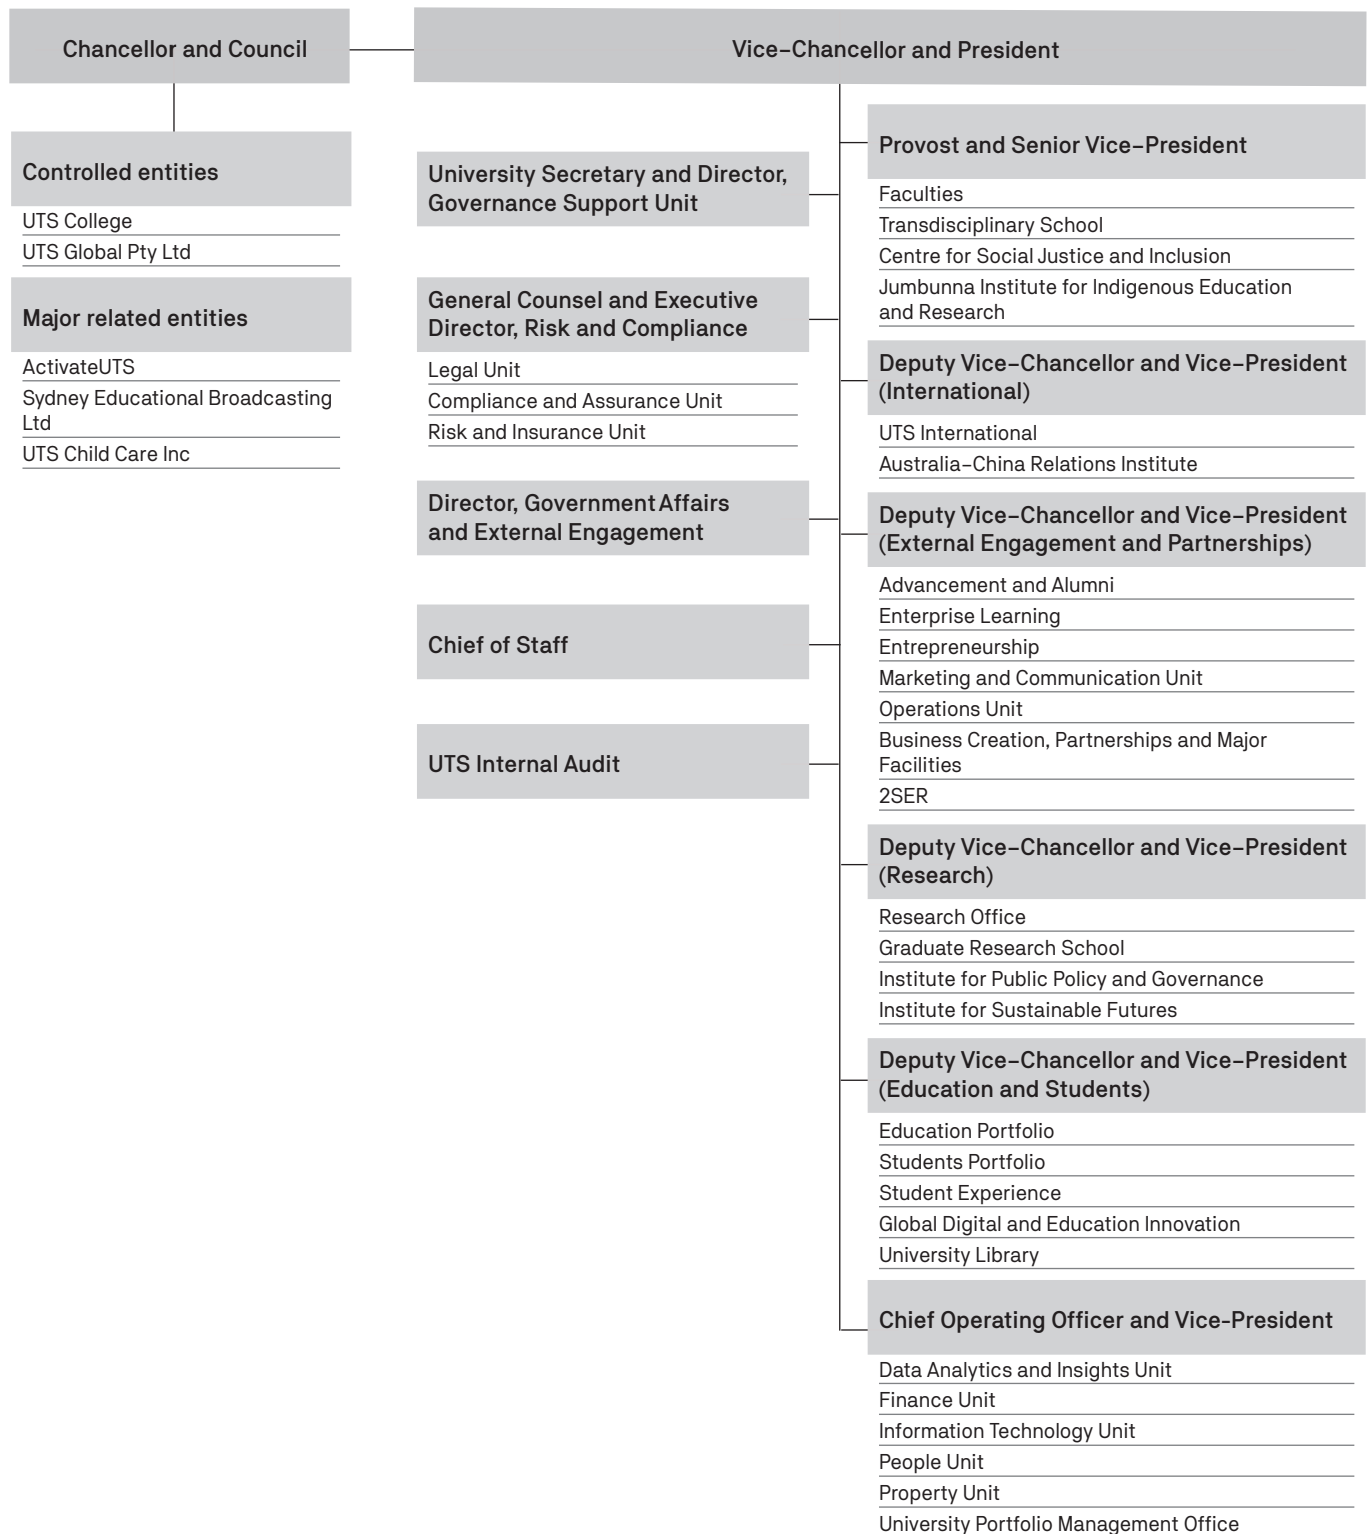

The University of Technology Sydney Act 1989 (NSW) is UTS's founding legislation. It outlines the university's objectives and functions as well as constitutional matters such as the membership and role of Council. The Act allows for the making of by-laws and rules.

Under section 6, the object of the university is the promotion, within the limits of the university's resources, of scholarship, research, free inquiry, the interaction of research and teaching, and academic excellence.

UTS has the following principal functions for the promotion of its object:

- the provision of facilities for education and research of university standard
- the encouragement of the dissemination, advancement, development and application of knowledge informed by free inquiry
- the provision of courses of study or instruction across a range of fields, and the carrying out of research, to meet the needs of the community
- the participation in public discourse
- the conferring of degrees, including those of bachelor, master and doctor, and the awarding of diplomas, certificates and other awards
- the provision of teaching and learning that engage with advanced knowledge and inquiry
- the development of governance, procedural rules, admission policies, financial arrangements and quality assurance processes that are underpinned by the university's values and goals and that are sufficient to ensure the integrity of the university's academic programs.

1. Indicates that, for this committee, the composition allows for the 'Vice-Chancellor or nominee' to attend. Figures for the Vice-Chancellor only include those meetings they attended, not those possible or attended by his nominee (if such nomination has occurred).

2. UTS General Rule G1 12(1) proscribes that the Vice-Chancellor will not be a member of the Audit and Risk Committee. Figures represent Vice-Chancellor attendance as a non-member.

A: Represents the number of meetings held during the time the member held office or was a member of the committee during the year. A dash indicates that a Council member was not a member of that particular committee.

B: Represents the number of meetings attended by the member.

C. Principal activities

UTS offers more than 130 undergraduate and 210 postgraduate courses across both traditional and emerging disciplines. Our teaching and learning equip graduates with cutting-edge skills and knowledge, preparing them to contribute meaningfully to the workforce of the future. With more than 40 research centres spanning fields such as health, biomedical science, artificial intelligence and sustainability, we drive real-world impact and tackle both national and global challenges.

The university maintains strong partnerships with industry, business, the professions and the local community through collaborative projects, research and events. Our global footprint continues to expand through research collaborations, joint education institutes and a worldwide alumni network.

As a public-purpose institution, UTS is dedicated to driving positive social change — on campus, in the local precinct and beyond. Through student-focused programs, impactful research and innovative teaching, UTS strives to create a more just and equitable world.

There were no significant changes in the nature of the activities of the consolidated entity during the year.

D. Review of operations, including significant changes in the state of affairs

UTS continued to make strong progress delivering on its strategic priorities in education and research, with notable impacts in many areas of importance to its communities. The university climbed 2 places to 88th in the world in the QS World University Rankings, the only non Group of Eight in the top 100. It ranked 85th globally (and equal sixth in Australia) in the U.S. News & World Report Best Global Universities rankings, achieved first place in the world for partnering towards the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals in the Times Higher Education Impact Rankings, and remained first in Australia for the fourth year in a row in the Times Higher Education Young University Rankings 2024.

UTS's student experience metrics improved with undergraduate student satisfaction rising above all Sydney universities and above the national average while maintaining first place in NSW and ninth nationally for postgraduate student satisfaction.

In the latest round of Australian Research Council Discovery Projects, UTS was awarded $9.8 million across 18 diverse research projects including green hydrogen, AI thoughts to text, 6G antennas, wastewater surveillance, healthcare provision and gender responsive law-making.

For the second year, we partnered with SXSW Sydney as the Official Education Partner and Conference Workshop Partner, reinforcing our strategic leadership in technology and the creative industries, and providing students internship opportunities with a global festival.

Building on research by the UTS Climate Change Cluster (C3), algae biotech company Algenie secured $1.1 million in early funding from strategic investors to launch a production factory.

The Centre for Social Justice and Inclusion hosted the national Elsie Conference, celebrating 50 years since the establishment of Australia's first women's refuge and the UTS Shopfront program.

UTS celebrated 30 years of partnership with Shanghai University, a collaboration that has driven significant research engagement, student exchanges and the creation of the Sydney Institute of Language and Commerce (SILC) Business School, the most enduring and largest Sino-foreign education institute in China.

Operating result for 2024

The university reported an operating loss of $81 million in 2024 (2023: operating loss of $107 million).

This loss, in line with budget, was reflective of the challenging operating environment. The university has incurred losses for 3 consecutive years following COVID-19 and the initially slow return of international students, reduced domestic student revenue per EFTSL from declining government funding, and a period of persistent inflationary pressures.

In response to these conditions, growth in revenue through the UTS 2027 strategy anticipated a return to surplus by 2027, providing the capacity to deliver strategic priorities in the short to medium term, and time to plan for financial sustainability measures that address some of the structural issues underpinning the losses.

Revenue

Total revenue in 2024 from teaching, research and other activities was $1.31 billion (2023: $1.15 billion). This growth was in line with budget expectations as the return of international students gathered pace and with UTS's strategy to achieve a revenue level that reflects its desired scale and impact.

Teaching revenue rose 13% to $1.0 billion (2023: $0.9 billion) with the return of international students (11% EFTSL growth) and strong domestic student demand (9% EFTSL growth). Teaching revenue growth included price increases of around 4% which mostly offset the increased cost of teaching and inflationary pressures.

International EFTSL revenue was approximately 23% of teaching revenue (2023: 23%), marginally lower than expectations following disruption to student visa processing during 2024.

External research revenue rose 19% to $127 million (2023: $107 million).

Investment income and other revenue represented approximately 6% of total revenue. These funds are re-invested into UTS's education and research initiatives.

Expenditure

Total expenditure in 2024 was $1.39 billion (2023: $1.25 billion).

Employee-related expenses increased 11% to $764 million (2023: $690 million), reflecting a 3% FTE increase to support increased EFTSL levels, increased research activity, wage adjustments of 4% on average, and increased costs in high-cost courses such as STEM and health. Following the Job-ready Graduates changes to the Australian Government's student funding model, additional costs in high-cost courses are not fully recovered, reducing the surplus available for re-investment and adding to cost pressures.

The 14% increase in other costs reflected acquisition costs (agency fees and scholarships) associated with the growth in international students in a highly competitive and price-sensitive market.

UTS has provided for wage remediation obligations that have arisen as a result of our ongoing detailed program of review.

Cash and investments

The university finished 2024 with $404 million in cash and other financial assets (2023: $356 million), excluding unlisted shares. This increase included $53 million in proceeds from the sale of the Blackfriars building in 2024, as well as an ability to fund strategic investments through operational cashflows in line with the Financial Plan.

Investment in opex and capex cashflows in 2024 totalled $68 million (2023: $89 million) across property and technology programs. The university continues to ensure investments are carefully prioritised to be supported by operational cashflow while maintaining the capacity to repay the $300 million bond in 2027.

Borrowings

At December 2024, the university's total borrowings, excluding lease liabilities, were $299 million at fair value (2023: $299 million) represented by the bond. There was also $200 million in revolver credit facilities which remain undrawn (2023: $200 million undrawn).

Context and outlook

The operating environment for the university sector has remained challenging and, while the fundamentals of UTS remain strong, further constraint on revenue growth is expected from future government policy settings and geopolitical uncertainty.

In 2024, the sector was advised of significant changes in government policy on commencing international students and, though these changes are still to be clarified, the anticipated constraint on revenue growth will reduce UTS's capacity to return to surplus without significant reductions in expenditure in coming years.

The UTS 2030 strategy, due to be finalised in 2025, will respond to this challenging environment and provide financial sustainability to achieve UTS's vision to be a leading public university of technology, recognised for its global impact. In line with the strategy, UTS is evaluating its cost structures and adapting its operating model with the aim of returning to surplus by 2027. This will allow for repayment of the bond and provide the capacity to make the prudent investments to ensure excellence in UTS's education and research.

UTS will also continue to work with peak bodies to advocate a way towards a financially sustainable university sector.

E. Matters subsequent to the end of the financial year

On 1 January 2025, UTS became the sole member of AustLII Foundation Limited.

No other matters or circumstances have arisen since the end of the financial year which significantly affected or may significantly affect the operations of the Group or Parent, the results of those operations, or the state of affairs of the Group or Parent in future financial years.

F. Likely developments and expected results of operations

The university is managing likely future developments through its well-established governance arrangements, policies, processes, and practices, founded on a risk management framework and aligned to the delivery of the UTS 2030 strategy.

G. Environmental reporting

The university is not subject to any particular or significant environmental regulation under either Commonwealth or state legislation. However, the university believes that adequate systems are in place for the management of environmental requirements and is not aware of any breach of those environmental requirements.

H. Insurance of officers

The university maintains commercial insurance to indemnify persons who serve on UTS boards and committees. The coverage includes costs of awards of damages, judgements, court orders for compensation and associated costs in relation to claims for wrongful acts made against UTS directors or officers.

I. Declaration

This report is made in accordance with a resolution dated 16 April 2025 of the members of the Council of the University of Technology Sydney.
