CALENDARB

2016

UTS now has two academic calendars. Calendar B (on this page) only applies to some students enrolled in subjects in specific Graduate School of Health and Teacher Education courses. All other subjects operate on the main UTS Academic Calendar, shown on the reverse of this wall planner. Check at www.handbook.uts.edu.au/dates.html (footnote 11) if you're not sure whether your course uses Calendar B.

learning.futures

UTS inspires graduate success by engaging students in creative learning that enables them to build strong professional identities, future-focussed graduate capabilities and global citizenship.

learning.futures puts students at the centre of the learning experience and promotes innovation in learning by integrating the best of online and faceto-face experiences.

The learning.futures approach includes:

- > implementing evidence-based good practice in teaching and learning that promotes interactive, engaging, personal learning experiences and authentic assessment
- > curriculum that integrates creativity, innovation and technologies to create inspiring learning experiences for students
- enabling students to engage with new ideas before they come to class and so they may participate in active and collaborative experiences in innovative learning spaces while on campus
- promoting graduate workplace success through increased opportunities for work-integrated learning, internships and transdisciplinary learning outcomes.
